

Most Unique Food in Auburn: The Irritable Bao

Empower by Eating at The Irritable Bao, the Most Unique Food in Auburn. Stop by for delicious food that supports local communities through its charitable initiatives.

MOST UNIQUE FOOD IN AUBURN

By Molly Walding

Located in the heart of Auburn, Alabama, The Irritable Bao serves delicious food with a purpose. Click here for the address to the Most Unique Food in Auburn. Behind every delicious bao bun and flavorful dish lies a powerful mission to support young warriors in Asia through the non-profit organization Empowering Young Warriors Asia in the Philippines and Cambodia. The restaurant's owners, the Dykes, are dedicated to making a difference in the lives of children living in extreme poverty by donating 10% of their profits towards providing essential nourishment and spiritual support. This commitment to giving back extends beyond borders, as The Irritable Bao also allocates an additional 10% of their earnings to support local initiatives for single moms and other marginalized groups in the community. Click here to learn more about the mission behind the Most Unique Food in Auburn.

Try the Most Unique Food in Auburn, where every bite you take contributes to a greater cause, making your dining experience not only satisfying for your taste buds but also fulfilling for your soul. When you choose to dine at the best restaurant in Auburn, you are not just enjoying a culinary delight but also becoming a part of a movement that uplifts and empowers those in need. The fusion of flavors in each dish mirrors the fusion of compassion and generosity that drives The Irritable Bao's mission to create a positive impact, both locally and globally.

Whether you savor the savory goodness of their signature bao buns or indulge in their delectable entrees, you are supporting a noble cause that transcends the boundaries of a typical dining experience. The spirit of giving and community resonates in every aspect of The Irritable Bao, from their menu offerings to their philanthropic endeavors. Click here to access the Instagram which has the menu of the Most Unique Food in Auburn. Join the Dykes and their team in spreading love, hope, and nourishment to those who need it most, one meal at a time.

Make your way to The Irritable Bao and savor the flavors of empowerment and generosity. Your patronage not only fills your stomach but also fills hearts and minds with the warmth of compassion and the joy of making a difference. Experience the Most Unique Food in Auburn by dining with a purpose at The Irritable Bao. Every meal is a celebration of giving back and creating a brighter future for young warriors in need. It is more than just a funny name. Empower by eating at The Irritable Bao.

Take
it
one bao
at a time.

To: bcarlton@al.com
From: mcw0093@auburn.edu
Subject: Food That Fills the Heart and Stomach

Dear Bob,

I hope this email finds you well. As a current student at Auburn University, I enjoyed reading your recent article on our new restaurant, 1856. As a tour guide for the university, I have recommended 1856 to several prospective students and their parents. Your article re-emphasizes their need to eat there.

I wanted to suggest a feature story on another unique, must-try restaurant in Auburn, Alabama. The Irritable Bao, located in the heart of Auburn has incredibly delicious authentic asian cuisine but also an incredible mission.

The Irritable Bao is much more than its silly name. Behind every delicious bao bun and flavorful dish lies a powerful mission to support young warriors in Asia through the non-profit organization Empowering Young Warriors Asia in the Philippines and Cambodia.

I think AL.com would be a perfect platform to promote the Irritable Bao. For more about the restaurant, the owners, and their mission, watch this short documentary I am attaching below.

<https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=mZAlwhqqBGI>

Thank you for considering sharing this empowering business. I look forward to reading more of your work.

Best regards,
Molly Walding
mcw0093@auburn.edu
(251) 422-4390

To: alana.alhatlani@gmail.com

From: mcw0093@auburn.edu

Subject: The Most Unique and Empowering Food in Auburn

Dear Alana,

I hope this email finds you well. I have enjoyed reading your recent feature stories on Southern Living. I am especially impressed by your “32 Tasty Side Dishes for Pizza.” I plan to make your garlic knots for my next family event.

I wanted to suggest a feature story on a unique restaurant in Auburn, Alabama. The Irritable Bao, located in downtown Auburn, creates a line of hungry customers down the street. Aside from the silly name, the food is incredibly delicious.

The Irritable Bao offers authentic Chinese dumpling flavors that change each day. Their most popular flavor, the Buffalo Chicken Dip Bao, is my personal favorite.

I think Southern Living would be a phenomenal platform to promote the Irritable Bao. 100% of the proceeds of merchandise sales and tips, and a portion of their food sales go towards support Empowering Young Warriors Asia and Empowering Lives Asia. They also support single parents in the Auburn community who struggle to provide for their family.

Thank you for considering sharing this life-changing business.

Best regards,

Molly Walding

mcw0093@auburn.edu

(251) 422-4390

To: comediennejoy@gmail.com

From: mcw0093@auburn.edu

Subject: A Fun and Fulfilling Stop For Your Next Bus Food Tour

Dear Comedienne,

I hope this email finds you well. A friend of mine recently went on a Bus Food Tour with you and has recommended it to me ever since. She said it was the perfect combination of food, fun, and travel.

I wanted to suggest bringing a tour to a unique restaurant in Auburn, Alabama. The Irritable Bao, located in downtown Auburn, would be a once in a lifetime meal that supports local and global families. The Irritable Bao offers authentic Chinese dumpling flavors that change each day. Their most popular flavor, the Buffalo Chicken Dip Bao, is my personal favorite.

100% of the proceeds of merchandise sales and tips, and a portion of their food sales go towards support Empowering Young Warriors Asia and Empowering Lives Asia. They also support single parents in the Auburn community who struggle to provide for their family.

It would be incredible if you considering bringing Food Bus Tour to The Irritable Bao. Your customers create engaging social media posts following the tour and The Irritable Bao would benefit greatly from the exposure.

Thank you for considering sharing this life-changing business for your next Food Bus Tour.

Best regards,

Molly Walding

mcw0093@auburn.edu

(251) 422-4390

INSTAGRAM POST

Want to be featured on the Instagram? Empower by Eating one bao at a time! #EmpowerbyEating

FACEBOOK POST

MEET THE OWNER!

Whitley makes it his mission to meet and connect with his customers daily. Stop by to hear more about how you can #EmpowerbyEating with Whitley.

 WED-SAT 10am-2pm + FRI 5-8pm

INSTAGRAM STORY

See any faces you know?

YES!!!!!!

75%

no :(

25%

EMPOWER BY EATING WITH THEM TODAY! COME HOP IN LINE!

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

May 1, 2024

Contact: Molly Walding

Email: mcw0093@auburn.edu

Phone: (251) 422-4390

BAO EATING CONTEST AT THE IRRITABLE BAO: MOST UNIQUE FOOD IN AUBURN

Auburn, Alabama – May 1, 2024 — The Irritable Bao is hosting a special event that promises to satisfy your taste buds and touch your hearts. Join us on July 20, 2024, for a Bao Eating Contest like never before. Every bite you take will contribute to a greater cause.

Located in the heart of Auburn, The Irritable Bao has the Most Unique Food in Auburn. Through their partnership with the non-profit organization Empowering Young Warriors Asia in the Philippines and Cambodia, the restaurant's owners, the Dykes, are dedicated to making a difference in the lives of young warriors living in extreme poverty.

By dining at The Irritable Bao, you are not only treating yourself to a culinary delight but also becoming part of a movement that uplifts and empowers those in need. The fusion of flavors in each dish mirrors the fusion of compassion and generosity that drives The Irritable Bao's mission to create a positive impact, both locally and globally.

The Bao Eating Contest will be a fun and exciting event for all ages. The flavors will include a fan favorite, Buffalo Chicken Dip Bao, along with new items. Participants will have the opportunity to showcase their bao-eating skills while raising funds to support young warriors in Asia. The winner will receive a “Free Bao Pass” that lasts for an entire year!

Your support will not only fill your stomach but also fill hearts with the joy of making a difference. Don't miss this chance to empower by eating at The Irritable Bao. For more information about the event and how you can get signed up, visit our Instagram page here The Irritable Bao. For personal questions, please call Susan Smith at (334) 822-1327 or through email susansmitheats@gmail.com.

100% of the proceeds of merchandise sales and tips, and a portion of their food sales go towards support Empowering Young Warriors Asia and Empowering Lives Asia. The Irritable Bao also supports single parents in the Auburn community who struggle to provide for their family. See you at The Irritable Bao for a bao-tastic event! Make a difference, one bao at a time.

###

I wanted to add that I went there for lunch today:)